UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
EASTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

-----X

RAYMOND FORREST, Individually and as the representative of a class of similarly situated persons,

Case No. 24-cv-7283

Plaintiff,

- against -

CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

SCHILLING CIDER, LLC,

Defendant.

INTRODUCTION

1. Plaintiff, Raymond Forrest (“Plaintiff” or “Forrest”), brings this action on behalf of himself and all other persons similarly situated against Schilling Cider, LLC (hereinafter “Schilling Cider” or “Defendant”), and states as follows:

2. Plaintiff is a visually-impaired and legally blind person who requires screen-reading software to read website content using her computer. Plaintiff uses the terms “blind” or “visually-impaired” to refer to all people with visual impairments who meet the legal definition of blindness in that they have a visual acuity with correction of less than or equal to 20 x 200. Some blind people who meet this definition have limited vision; others have no vision.

3. Based on a 2010 U.S. Census Bureau report, approximately 8.1 million people in the United States are visually impaired, including 2.0 million who are blind, and according to the American Foundation for the Blind's 2015 report, approximately 400,000 visually impaired persons live in the State of New York.

4. Plaintiff brings this civil rights action against Schilling Cider for their failure to design, construct, maintain, and operate their website to be fully accessible to and independently usable by Plaintiff and other blind or visually-impaired persons. Defendant is denying blind and visually-impaired persons throughout the United States with equal access to the goods and services Schilling Cider provides to their non-disabled customers through <http://www.Schillingcider.com> (hereinafter "Schillingcider.com" or "the website"). Defendant's denial of full and equal access to its website, and therefore denial of its products and services offered, and in conjunction with its physical locations, is a violation of Plaintiff's rights under the Americans with Disabilities Act (the "ADA").

5. Schillingcider.com provides to the public a wide array of the information, services, and other programs offered by Schilling Cider. Yet, Schillingcider.com contains thousands of access barriers that make it difficult if not impossible for blind and visually-impaired customers to use the website. In fact, the access barriers make it impossible for blind and visually-impaired users to even complete a transaction on the website. Thus, Schilling Cider excludes the blind and visually-impaired from the full and equal participation in the growing Internet economy that is increasingly a fundamental part of the common marketplace and daily living. In the wave of technological advances in recent years, assistive computer technology is becoming an increasingly prominent part of everyday life, allowing blind and visually-impaired persons to fully and independently access a variety of services.

6. The blind have an even greater need than the sighted to browse, shop and conduct transactions online due to the challenges faced in mobility. The lack of an accessible website means that blind people are excluded from experiencing transacting with defendant's website.

7. Despite readily available accessible technology, such as the technology in use at other heavily trafficked retail websites, which makes use of alternative text, accessible forms, descriptive links, resizable text and limits the usage of tables and JavaScript, Defendant has chosen to rely on an exclusively visual interface. Schilling Cider's sighted customers can independently browse, select, and shop online without the assistance of others. However, blind persons must rely on sighted companions to assist them in accessing and purchasing on Schillingcider.com.

8. By failing to make the website accessible to blind persons, Defendant is violating basic equal access requirements under both state and federal law.

9. Congress provided a clear and national mandate for the elimination of discrimination against individuals with disabilities when it enacted the ADA. Such discrimination includes barriers to full integration, independent living, and equal opportunity for persons with disabilities, including those barriers created by websites and other public accommodations that are inaccessible to blind and visually impaired persons. Similarly, New York state law requires places of public accommodation to ensure access to goods, services, and facilities by making reasonable accommodations for persons with disabilities.

10. Plaintiff browsed and intended to make an online purchase of the Excelsior Crewneck and the Schilling Waffle Beanie on Schillingcider.com. However, unless Defendant remedies the numerous access barriers on its website, Plaintiff and Class members will continue to be unable to independently navigate, browse, use, and complete a transaction on Schillingcider.com.

11. Because Defendant's website, Schillingcider.com, is not equally accessible to blind and visually-impaired consumers, it violates the ADA. Plaintiff seeks a permanent injunction to cause a change in Schilling Cider's policies, practices, and procedures so that Defendant's website will become and remain accessible to blind and visually-impaired consumers. This complaint also seeks compensatory damages to compensate Class members for having been subjected to unlawful discrimination.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

12. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction over this action under 28 U.S.C. § 1331 and 42 U.S.C. § 12181, as Plaintiff's claims arise under Title III of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12181 et seq., and 28 U.S.C. § 1332, because this is a class action, as defined by 28 U.S.C. § 1332(d)(1)(B), in which a member of the putative class is a citizen of a different state than Defendant, and the amount in controversy exceeds the sum or value of $5,000,000, excluding interest and costs. See 28 U.S.C. § 133(d)(2).

13. This Court also has supplemental jurisdiction over pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1367, over Plaintiff's pendent claims under the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law, Article 15 (Executive Law § 290 et seq.) and the New York City Human Rights Law, N.Y.C. Administrative Code § 8-101 et seq. ("City Law").

14. Venue is proper in this District of New York pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1391(b)-(c) and 144(a) because Plaintiff resides in this District, Defendant conducts and continues to conduct a substantial and significant amount of business in this District, and a substantial portion of the conduct complained of herein occurred in this District.

15. Defendant is registered to do business in New York State and has been conducting business in New York State, including in this District. Defendant maintains Brick-and-mortar places of accommodation in this District which are subject to personal jurisdiction in this District. Defendant also has been and is committing the acts alleged herein in this District and has been and is violating the rights of consumers in this District and has been and is causing injury to consumers in this District. A substantial part of the act and omissions giving rise to Plaintiff's claims have occurred in this District.

PARTIES

16. Plaintiff, is and has been at all relevant times a resident of Kings County, State of New York.

17. Plaintiff is legally blind and a member of a protected class under the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12102(l)-(2), the regulations implementing the ADA set forth at 28 CFR §§ 36.101 et seq., the New York State Human Rights Law and the New York City Human Rights Law. Plaintiff, Raymond Forrest, cannot use a computer without the assistance of screen reader software. Plaintiff, Raymond Forrest, has been denied the full enjoyment of the facilities, goods and services of Schillingcider.com, as well as to the facilities, goods and services of Defendant's brick and mortar locations, as a result of accessibility barriers on Schillingcider.com.

18. Defendant, Schilling Cider, LLC, is a Washington foreign Limited Liability company doing business in New York with a principal place of business located at 4402 D Street NW, Auburn, WA 98001.

19. Defendant owns and operates Schilling Cider Houses (hereinafter, "Schilling Cider Houses" or "Houses"), which are a place of public accommodation.

20. Schilling Cider Houses provide to the public important and enjoyable goods and services including a wide range of craft cider/hard cider beverages and merchandise, amongst the many products which are offered for sale at the Houses. Defendant also provides to the public a website known as Schillingcider.com which provides consumers with access to an array of goods and services offered to the public by Schilling Cider Houses, including, the ability to view and learn about the products offered for sale at the Schilling Cider House locations, place an online order for delivery of Defendant's merchandise and obtain information about the Houses' location and hours – all with the click of a mouse. The inaccessibility of Schillingcider.com has deterred Plaintiff from making an online purchase of the Excelsior Crewneck and the Schilling Waffle Beanie.

21. Defendant's location is a public accommodation within the definition of Title III of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12181(7). Defendant's website is a service, privilege, or advantage that is heavily integrated with Defendant's physical Houses and operates as a gateway thereto.

NATURE OF THE CASE

22. The Internet has become a significant source of information, a portal, and a tool for conducting business, doing everyday activities such as shopping, learning, banking, researching, as well as many other activities for sighted, blind and visually-impaired persons alike.

23. The blind access websites by using keyboards in conjunction with screen-reading software which vocalizes visual information on a computer screen. Except for a blind person whose residual vision is still sufficient to use magnification, screen access software provides the only method by which a blind person can independently access the Internet. Unless websites are designed to allow for use in this manner, blind persons are unable to fully access Internet websites and the information, products and services contained therein.

24. For screen-reading software to function, the information on a website must be capable of being rendered into text. If the website content is not capable of being rendered into text, the blind user is unable to access the same content available to sighted users.

25. Blind users of Windows operating system-enabled computers and devices have several screen-reading software programs available to them. Job Access With Speech, otherwise known as "JAWS" is currently the most popular, separately purchase and downloaded screen-reading software program available for blind computer users.

26. The international website standards organization, the World Wide Web Consortium, known throughout the world as W3C, has published version 2.1 of the Web Content

Accessibility Guidelines (“WCAG 2.1”). WCAG 2.1 are well-established guidelines for making websites accessible to blind and visually-impaired persons. These guidelines are universally followed by most large business entities and government agencies to ensure their websites are accessible. Many Courts have also established WCAG 2.1 as the standard guideline for accessibility. The federal government has also promulgated website accessibility standards under Section 508 of the Rehabilitation Act. These guidelines are readily available via the Internet, so that a business designing a website can easily access them. These guidelines recommend several basic components for making websites accessible, including but not limited to: adding invisible alt-text to graphics, ensuring that all functions can be performed using a keyboard and not just a mouse, ensuring that image maps are accessible, and adding headings so that blind persons can easily navigate the site. Without these very basic components, a website will be inaccessible to a blind person using a screen reader. Websites need to be accessible to the “least sophisticated” user of screen-reading software and need to be able to work with all browsers. Websites need to be continually updated and maintained to ensure that they remain fully accessible.

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

27. Defendant operates Schilling Cider Houses which are located around the country and provide a wide variety of cider/hard cider beverages and merchandise, amongst the many other products.

28. Schillingcider.com is a service and benefit offered by Schilling Cider in New York State and throughout the United States. Schillingcider.com is owned, controlled and/or operated by Schilling Cider, LLC.

29. Schillingcider.com is a commercial website that offers products and services for online browsing and sale that are available in Schilling Cider Houses. The online Houses allows the user to view and learn about the products offered for sale at the Schilling Cider House locations, purchase merchandise for delivery, and obtain information about the Houses' location and hours, and perform a variety of other functions.

30. Among the features offered by Schillingcider.com are the following:

(a) learning House information including, allowing persons who wish to visit the Houses to learn their locations, hours of operation, and phone numbers;

(b) an online House, allowing customers to purchase a wide variety of merchandise for delivery to their doorstep, and

(c) learning about the company and its story, learning about where Defendant's products are locally sold, learning about the nutritional value, and connecting with Schilling Cider on social media.

31. This case arises out of Schilling Cider's policy and practice of denying the blind access to Schillingcider.com, including the goods and services offered by Schilling Cider Houses through Schillingcider.com. Due to Schilling Cider's failure and refusal to remove access barriers to Schillingcider.com, blind individuals have been and are being denied equal access to Schilling Cider Houses, as well as to the numerous goods, services and benefits offered to the public through Schillingcider.com.

32. Schilling Cider denies the blind access to goods, services and information made available through Schillingcider.com by preventing them from freely navigating Schillingcider.com.

33. Schillingcider.com contains access barriers that prevent free and full use by Plaintiff and blind persons using keyboards and screen-reading software. These barriers are pervasive and include, but are not limited to: lack of alt-text on graphics, inaccessible drop-down menus, the lack of navigation links, the lack of adequate prompting and labeling, the denial of keyboard access, empty links that contain no text, redundant links where adjacent links go to the same URL address, and the requirement that transactions be performed solely with a mouse.

34. Alternative text (“Alt-text”) is invisible code embedded beneath a graphical image on a website. Web accessibility requires that alt-text be coded with each picture so that a screen-reader can speak the alternative text while sighted users see the picture. Alt-text does not change the visual presentation except that it appears as a text pop-up when the mouse moves over the picture. There are many important pictures on Schillingcider.com that lack a text equivalent. The lack of alt-text on these graphics prevents screen readers from accurately vocalizing a description of the graphics (screen-readers detect and vocalize alt-text to provide a description of the image to a blind computer user). As a result, Plaintiff and blind Schillingcider.com customers are unable to determine what is on the website, browse the website or investigate Schilling Cider Houses’ web pages.

35. Schillingcider.com also lacks prompting information and accommodations necessary to allow blind shoppers who use screen-readers to locate and accurately fill-out online forms. On a shopping site such as Schillingcider.com, these forms include search fields to select products, fields to select size and quantity, and search fields used to fill-out personal information, including address and credit card information. Due to lack of adequate labeling, Plaintiff and blind customers cannot make purchases or inquiries as to Defendant’s products, nor can they enter their personal identification and financial information with confidence and security.

36. Plaintiff and the class of visually-impaired, using screen-reading software known as JAWS, encountered the following additional specific problems when visiting Schillingcider.com:

- Plaintiff was unable to access the skip to content button and the search option. Consequently, accessing individual products was virtually impossible and at best, significantly time-consuming and burdensome.

- Plaintiff was unable to access the submenu for the 'Products' link. After expanding the submenu for the 'Products' list, focus does NOT move to the submenu, but instead, the user needs to navigate through the remaining navigation links before focus reaches it. Plaintiff and other users assume that the submenu is NOT accessible.
- Plaintiff was unable to access the 'Sustainability' PDFs found in the Sustainability webpage. Navigation moves focus around the PDFs in a non-meaningful way, skipping from section to section and announcing content separately from its heading. Moreover, the image of text present in the 'Carbon Disclosure' tab does NOT receive focus so CANNOT be read by screen reader users.
- Plaintiff was unable to access the 'Product Information' and 'Nutrition Facts' on product pages. Once these tabs are expanded, the content below is NOT accessible. Pressing the down arrow key does NOT move focus to the content below or anywhere else on the page. Pressing the tab key jumps focus to the next section below.
- Plaintiff was unable to add any product to the Shopping cart. The 'Add to Cart' button is NOT announced and NOT accessible. It is completely SKIPPED OVER when navigating on a product page. This is a critical error. Even if the 'Add to Cart' button was properly announced, Plaintiff would still NOT be able to add any product to the shopping cart. If the 'Add to Cart' button is selected by a screen reader user, there is NO announcement made, so Plaintiff and other blind visitors to the website would NOT know if the (unannounced) button even functions.
- To make matters worse, the 'Update' and 'Remove' button on the cart webpage are announced only as "button," so Plaintiff would NOT know their purpose or destination.
- Plaintiff was unable to complete the checkout process because he did not receive error notification. If a checkout form is submitted with errors, sighted visitors see that the system responds by highlighting each problematic field in red and it included an error message in each field, but no announcement is made. Plaintiff and other screen reader users do not hear that errors are present, nor do they hear that the form wasn't submitted. Consequently, they are unable to complete the checkout process.
- Plaintiff was unable to utilize the 'Store Location' to find out where Defendant's product are sold near him. The 'Select Specific Products' button on this page opens a pop-up which is NEVER announced and NEVER given focus.

Consequently, Plaintiff and other blind customers are essentially prevented from browsing or purchasing any items on Schillingcider.com.

37. Schillingcider.com lacks accessible image maps. An image map is a function that combines multiple words and links into one single image. Visual details on this single image highlight different "hot spots" which, when clicked on, allow the user to jump to many different destinations within the website. For an image map to be accessible, it must contain alt-text for the various “hot spots.” The image maps on Schillingcider.com do not contain adequate alt-text and are therefore inaccessible to Plaintiff and other blind persons attempting to make online purchases.

38. Moreover, the lack of navigation links on Defendant’s website makes attempting to navigate through Schillingcider.com even more time consuming and confusing for Plaintiff and blind consumers.

39. Schillingcider.com requires the use of a mouse to complete a transaction. Yet, it is a fundamental tenet of web accessibility that for a web page to be accessible to Plaintiff and blind people, it must be possible for the user to interact with the page using only the keyboard. Indeed, Plaintiff and blind users cannot use a mouse because manipulating the mouse is a visual activity of moving the mouse pointer from one visual spot on the page to another. Thus, Schillingcider.com’s inaccessible design, which requires the use of a mouse to complete a transaction, denies Plaintiff and blind customers the ability to independently navigate and/or make purchases on Schillingcider.com.

40. Due to Schillingcider.com’s inaccessibility, Plaintiff and blind customers must in turn spend time, energy, and/or money to make their purchases at a Schilling Cider House. Some blind customers may require a driver to get to the Houses or require assistance in navigating the Houses. By contrast, if Schillingcider.com was accessible, a blind person could independently investigate products and make purchases via the Internet as sighted individuals can and do. According to WCAG 2.1 Guideline 2.4.1, a mechanism is necessary to bypass blocks of content that are repeated on multiple webpages because requiring users to extensively tab before reaching the main content is an unacceptable barrier to accessing the website. Plaintiff must tab through every navigation bar option and footer on Defendant’s website in an attempt to reach the desired service. Thus, Schillingcider.com’s inaccessible design, which requires the use of a mouse to complete a transaction, denies Plaintiff and blind customers the ability to independently make purchases on Schillingcider.com.

41. Schillingcider.com thus contains access barriers which deny the full and equal access to Plaintiff, who would otherwise use Schillingcider.com and who would otherwise be able to fully and equally enjoy the benefits and services of Schilling Cider Houses in New York State.

42. Plaintiff, Raymond Forrest, has made numerous attempts to complete a purchase on Schillingcider.com, most recently on September 28, 2024, October 2, 2024, and October 4, 2024, but was unable to do so independently because of the many access barriers on Defendant's website. These access barriers have caused Schillingcider.com to be inaccessible to, and not independently usable by, blind and visually-impaired persons. Amongst other access barriers experienced, Plaintiff was unable to make an online purchase of the Excelsior Crewneck and the Schilling Waffle Beanie.

43. Moreover, Plaintiff intends to return to the Website in the future if it becomes accessible in order to purchase additional Schilling related merchandise for delivery to his doorstep. Plaintiff really likes cider – especially hard cider. With autumn upon us and the thermometer going down, hard cider is Plaintiff's favorite cocktail of the season. He likes to enjoy it with friends and family and even on his own. Plaintiff also likes to adorn merchandise from brands that he enjoys to consume. Hard cider has been slowly increasing in popularity and the Schilling Excelsior brand is a popular brand that carries a bit more alcohol than most other hard cider brands. Plaintiff tried it at bars and at friends' homes and really enjoyed the taste and the buzz. Consequently, he went to Defendant's website to learn more about its products, learn about the Cider Houses and attempted to purchase merchandise. Unfortunately, Defendant's website is not accessible, as outlined above, and Plaintiff was unable to order any products for delivery to his home. Plaintiff has bought similar items from other (accessible) online vendors in the past. However, he really wanted to get merchandise with Defendant's logo so he can show his pride in the hard cider that he likes. Plaintiff will continue to make purchases on Defendant's website if it was accessible. There are many types of merchandise sold on the website, including apparel, headwear, accessories, and pins. Plaintiff thinks that some, especially the pins, would be good collectibles. Currently, Plaintiff is deterred from making any purchases on Defendant's website. Unlike a brick-and-mortar facility, a website is instantly accessible at any moment, and, thus, an inability to make a purchase can only be attributed to access barriers (whereas for brick-and-mortar locations it can be attributed to proximity, travel time, etc.). See Sanchez v. Nutco, Inc., 10-CV-10107 (JPO), 2022 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 51247, at *7 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 22, 2022) (citing Quezada v U.S. Wings, Inc., 20 Civ. 10707 (ER), 2021 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 234057, at *4 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 7 2021)). Determining whether an ADA website accessibility complaint properly allege whether plaintiff lives in "close proximity" to a specific location makes no sense when goods can be browsed, bought, and delivered to Plaintiff's home through a website. Likewise, factual considerations of an intent to return regarding a physical location, such as how often the plaintiff walks by the location, or how often they enter the facility, are not applicable. Cf. Lopez v. Arby Franchisor, LLC, 19-CV-10074 (VSB) 2021 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 43838. at *10 (S.D.N.Y. March 8, 2021). Plaintiff made numerous attempts to make purchases on the website during July, August, and September 2024 without success and will definitely make purchases of additional cookies for delivery to his home on the website once it becomes accessible.

44. As described above, Plaintiff has actual knowledge of the fact that Defendant's website, Schillingcider.com, contains access barriers causing the website to be inaccessible, and not independently usable by, blind and visually-impaired persons.

45. These barriers to access have denied Plaintiff full and equal access to, and enjoyment of, the goods, benefits and services of Schillingcider.com and Schilling Cider Houses.

46. Defendant engaged in acts of intentional discrimination, including but not limited to the following policies or practices:

(a) constructed and maintained a website that is inaccessible to blind class members with knowledge of the discrimination; and/or

(b) constructed and maintained a website that is not sufficiently intuitive and/or obvious that is inaccessible to blind class members; and/or

(c) failed to take actions to correct these access barriers in the face of substantial harm and discrimination to blind class members.

47. Defendant utilizes standards, criteria or methods of administration that have the effect of discriminating or perpetuating the discrimination of others.

48. Because of Defendant's denial of full and equal access to, and enjoyment of, the goods, benefits and services of Schillingcider.com and Schilling Cider Houses, Plaintiff and the class have suffered an injury-in-fact which is concrete and particularized and actual and is a direct result of defendant's conduct.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

49. Plaintiff, on behalf of himself and all others similarly situated, seeks certification of the following nationwide class pursuant to Rule 23(a) and 23(b)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure: "all legally blind individuals in the United States who have attempted to access Schillingcider.com and as a result have been denied access to the enjoyment of goods and services offered in Schilling Cider Houses, during the relevant statutory period."

50. Plaintiff seeks certification of the following New York subclass pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 23(a), 23(b)(2), and, alternatively, 23(b)(3): "all legally blind individuals in New York State who have attempted to access Schillingcider.com and as a result have been denied access to the enjoyment of goods and services offered in Schilling Cider Houses, during the relevant statutory period.”

51. There are hundreds of thousands of visually-impaired persons in New York State. There are approximately 8.1 million people in the United States who are visually-impaired. Id. Thus, the persons in the class are so numerous that joinder of all such persons is impractical and the disposition of their claims in a class action is a benefit to the parties and to the Court.

52. This case arises out of Defendant’s policy and practice of maintaining an inaccessible website denying blind persons access to the goods and services of Schillingcider.com and Schilling Cider Houses. Due to Defendant’s policy and practice of failing to remove access barriers, blind persons have been and are being denied full and equal access to independently browse, select and shop on Schillingcider.com and by extension the goods and services offered through Defendant’s website to Schilling Cider Houses.

53. There are common questions of law and fact common to the class, including without limitation, the following:

- (a) Whether Schillingcider.com is a “public accommodation” under the ADA;
- (b) Whether Schillingcider.com is a “place or provider of public accommodation” under the laws of New York;
- (c) Whether Defendant, through its website, Schillingcider.com, denies the full and equal enjoyment of its goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations to people with visual disabilities in violation of the ADA; and

(d) Whether Defendant, through its website, Schillingcider.com, denies the full and equal enjoyment of its goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations to people with visual disabilities in violation of the law of New York.

54. The claims of the named Plaintiff are typical of those of the class. The class, similar to the Plaintiff, is severely visually-impaired or otherwise blind, and claims Schilling Cider has violated the ADA, and/or the laws of New York by failing to update or remove access barriers on their website, Schillingcider.com, so it can be independently accessible to the class of people who are legally blind.

55. Plaintiff will fairly and adequately represent and protect the interests of the members of the Class because Plaintiff has retained and is represented by counsel competent and experienced in complex class action litigation, and because Plaintiff has no interests antagonistic to the members of the class. Class certification of the claims is appropriate pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(2) because Defendant has acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the Class, making appropriate both declaratory and injunctive relief with respect to Plaintiff and the Class as a whole.

56. Alternatively, class certification is appropriate under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(3) because questions of law and fact common to Class members clearly predominate over questions affecting only individual class members, and because a class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this litigation.

57. Judicial economy will be served by maintenance of this lawsuit as a class action in that it is likely to avoid the burden that would be otherwise placed upon the judicial system by the filing of numerous similar suits by people with visual disabilities throughout the United States.

58. References to Plaintiff shall be deemed to include the named Plaintiff and each member of the class, unless otherwise indicated.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION

(Violation of 42 U.S.C. §§ 12181 et seq. – Title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act)

59. Plaintiff repeats, realleges and incorporates by reference the allegations contained in paragraphs 1 through 58 of this Complaint as though set forth at length herein.

60. Title III of the American with Disabilities Act of 1990, 42 U.S.C. § 12182(a) provides that “No individual shall be discriminated against on the basis of disability in the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations of any place of public accommodation by any person who owns, leases (or leases to), or operates a place of public accommodation.” Title III also prohibits an entity from “[u]tilizing standards or criteria or methods of administration that have the effect of discriminating on the basis of disability.” 42 U.S.C. § 12181(b)(2)(D)(I).

61. Schilling Cider Houses located in New York State is a sales establishment and public accommodation within the definition of 42 U.S.C. §§ 12181(7)(B). Schillingcider.com is a service, privilege or advantage of Schilling Cider Houses. Schillingcider.com is a service that is by and integrated with the Houses.

62. Defendant is subject to Title III of the ADA because it owns and operates Schilling Cider Houses.

63. Under Title III of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12182(b)(1)(A)(I), it is unlawful discrimination to deny individuals with disabilities or a class of individuals with disabilities the opportunity to participate in or benefit from the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations of an entity.

64. Under Title III of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12182(b)(1)(A)(II), it is unlawful discrimination to deny individuals with disabilities or a class of individuals with disabilities an opportunity to participate in or benefit from the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodation, which is equal to the opportunities afforded to other individuals.

65. Specifically, under Title III of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12182(b)(2)(A)(II), unlawful discrimination includes, among other things, “a failure to make reasonable modifications in policies, practices, or procedures, when such modifications are necessary to afford such goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, or accommodations to individuals with disabilities, unless the entity can demonstrate that making such modifications would fundamentally alter the nature of such goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages or accommodations.”

66. In addition, under Title III of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12182(b)(2)(A)(III), unlawful discrimination also includes, among other things, “a failure to take such steps as may be necessary to ensure that no individual with disability is excluded, denied services, segregated or otherwise treated differently than other individuals because of the absence of auxiliary aids and services, unless the entity can demonstrate that taking such steps would fundamentally alter the nature of the good, service, facility, privilege, advantage, or accommodation being offered or would result in an undue burden.”

67. There are readily available, well-established guidelines on the Internet for making websites accessible to the blind and visually-impaired. These guidelines have been followed by other business entities in making their websites accessible, including but not limited to ensuring adequate prompting and accessible alt-text. Incorporating the basic components to make their website accessible would neither fundamentally alter the nature of Defendant’s business nor result in an undue burden to Defendant.

68. The acts alleged herein constitute violations of Title III of the ADA, 42 U.S.C. § 12101 et seq., and the regulations promulgated thereunder. Patrons of Schilling Cider Houses who are blind have been denied full and equal access to Schillingcider.com, have not been provided services that are provided to other patrons who are not disabled, and/or have been provided services that are inferior to the services provided to non-disabled patrons.

69. Defendant has failed to take any prompt and equitable steps to remedy its discriminatory conduct. These violations are ongoing.

70. As such, Defendant discriminates, and will continue in the future to discriminate against Plaintiff and members of the proposed class and subclass on the basis of disability in the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, accommodations and/or opportunities of Schillingcider.com and Schilling Cider Houses in violation of Title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act, 42 U.S.C. §§ 12181 et seq. and/or its implementing regulations.

71. Unless the Court enjoins Defendant from continuing to engage in these unlawful practices, Plaintiff and members of the proposed class and subclass will continue to suffer irreparable harm.

72. The actions of Defendant were and are in violation of the ADA, and therefore Plaintiff invokes his statutory right to injunctive relief to remedy the discrimination.

73. Plaintiff is also entitled to reasonable attorneys' fees and costs.

74. Pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 12188 and the remedies, procedures, and rights set forth and incorporated therein, Plaintiff prays for judgment as set forth below.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION

(Violation of New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law Article 15 (Executive Law § 292 et seq.))

75. Plaintiff repeats, realleges and incorporates by reference the allegations contained in paragraphs 1 through 74 of this Complaint as though set forth at length herein.

76. N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(2)(a) provides that it is “an unlawful discriminatory practice for any person, being the owner, lessee, proprietor, manager, superintendent, agent, or employee of any place of public accommodation . . . because of the . . . disability of any person, directly or indirectly, to refuse, withhold from or deny to such person any of the accommodations, advantages, facilities or privileges thereof.”.

77. Schilling Cider Houses located in New York State is a sales establishment and public accommodation within the definition of N.Y. Exec. Law § 292(9). Schillingcider.com is a service, privilege or advantage of Schilling Cider Houses. Schillingcider.com is a service that is by and integrated with the Houses.

78. Defendant is subject to the New York Human Rights Law because it owns and operates Schilling Cider Houses and Schillingcider.com. Defendant is a person within the meaning of N.Y. Exec. Law. § 292(1).

79. Defendant is violating N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(2)(a) in refusing to update or remove access barriers to Schillingcider.com, causing Schillingcider.com and the services integrated with Schilling Cider Houses to be completely inaccessible to the blind. This inaccessibility denies blind patrons the full and equal access to the facilities, goods and services that Defendant makes available to the non-disabled public.

80. Specifically, under N.Y. Exec. Law § unlawful discriminatory practice includes, among other things, “a refusal to make reasonable modifications in policies, practices, or procedures, when such modifications are necessary to afford facilities, privileges, advantages or accommodations to individuals with disabilities, unless such person can demonstrate that making such modifications would fundamentally alter the nature of such facilities, privileges, advantages or accommodations.”

81. In addition, under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(2)(c)(II), unlawful discriminatory practice also includes, “a refusal to take such steps as may be necessary to ensure that no individual with a disability is excluded or denied services because of the absence of auxiliary aids and services, unless such person can demonstrate that taking such steps would fundamentally alter the nature of the facility, privilege, advantage or accommodation being offered or would result in an undue burden.”

82. There are readily available, well-established guidelines on the Internet for making websites accessible to the blind and visually-impaired. These guidelines have been followed by other business entities in making their website accessible, including but not limited to: adding alt-text to graphics and ensuring that all functions can be performed by using a keyboard. Incorporating the basic components to make their website accessible would neither fundamentally alter the nature of Defendant’s business nor result in an undue burden to Defendant.

83. Defendant’s actions constitute willful intentional discrimination against the class on the basis of a disability in violation of the New York State Human Rights Law, N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(2) in that Defendant has:

(a) constructed and maintained a website that is inaccessible to blind class members with knowledge of the discrimination; and/or

(b) constructed and maintained a website that is not sufficiently intuitive and/or obvious that is inaccessible to blind class members; and/or

(c) failed to take actions to correct these access barriers in the face of substantial harm and discrimination to blind class members.

84. Defendant has failed to take any prompt and equitable steps to remedy their discriminatory conduct. These violations are ongoing.

85. As such, Defendant discriminates, and will continue in the future to discriminate against Plaintiff and members of the proposed class and subclass on the basis of disability in the full and equal enjoyment of the goods, services, facilities, privileges, advantages, accommodations and/or opportunities of Schillingcider.com and Schilling Cider Houses under N.Y. Exec. Law § 296(2) et seq. and/or its implementing regulations. Unless the Court enjoins Defendant from continuing to engage in these unlawful practices, Plaintiff and members of the class will continue to suffer irreparable harm.

86. The actions of Defendant were and are in violation of the New York State Human Rights Law and therefore Plaintiff invokes his right to injunctive relief to remedy the discrimination.

87. Plaintiff is also entitled to compensatory damages, as well as civil penalties and fines pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 297(4)(c) et seq. for each and every offense.

88. Plaintiff is also entitled to reasonable attorneys' fees and costs.

89. Pursuant to N.Y. Exec. Law § 297 and the remedies, procedures, and rights set forth and incorporated therein, Plaintiff prays for judgment as set forth below.
